Ruigrok Flowerbulbs Since 1910

It is with great pride that we present to you our new Fall catalog, offering the most extensive assortment in the industry.

Each spring, millions of people from around the world visit the Dutch flower bulb district to experience the famous tulip fields and Keukenhof Gardens.

After a long, cold winter, there is nothing like the beauty of tulips in early spring! Millions of tulip "selfies" are shared around the world on social media, providing wonderful PR for the Dutch flower bulb industry!

This year, we invited our daughter Romy and all her friends from university for a special photoshoot on our family farms.

We hope the images in this catalog give a good impression of the enjoyment we all gain from the blooms each spring.

At Ruigrok Flower Bulbs, we love the beautiful product we grow and proudly ship around the world.

This section consists of botanical (miniature) tulips from the Greigii, Kaufmanniana and Specie families. Botanical tulips are the earliest to bloom in the Spring, and stand out with their unique flower shapes.

Botanical tulips make a lovely show in rock gardens, containers and low borders. The best tulips for naturalizing! Combine perfectly with crocus, scilla, and early-mid season daffodils.

Some varieties produce multiple flowers per bulb.

TULIPS

Mixed

Single Late Mixtures

French Mixture is one of the most popular tulip mixes, featuring elegant, bright flowers on tall stems that bloom for much of May. Most Single Late tulips descend from the famous Mrs. J.T. Scheepers variety, and were originally grown in France. Our French Mixture provides an array of colors ranging from pure white to nearly black, with every shade in between. In addition we are introducing the Black and White Cookie Mix and Sunshine Mix, each consisting of 3 colors.

DAFFODILS

Botanical Mixture

Beautiful rich mix of botanical varieties blooming from March to April. They perform best in large plantings. Plant them in combination with early specialties like chionodoxa or scilla siberica for an extra touch of color in early spring!

DAFFODILS

Bulk Paperwhites

Native to Israel, Tazetta daffodils (commonly known as Paperwhites), are among the tallest of the Narcissi growing to a height of up to 30".

Their umbrels have as many as 8 flowers per stem.

Very fragrant and primarily suited for indoor planting (can be planted outdoors in zones 8-11).

Easy and quick to force at home: just place the bulbs on some pebble stones and water freely just below the base of the bulb. Blooms will appear in 4-6 weeks. Paperwhites have a tendency to topple over due to their height and heavy clusters of flowers - keep them upright with stakes or twine.

Most fragrant & popular - Ziva. Least fragrant - Ariel.

Please note that not all sizes listed are available to customers in Canada. Ask your account manager for more info!

Alliums, or ornamental onions, come in a wide range of flower shapes and sizes. Vary from the gigantic Ambassador, to the more compact Purple Sensation, or subtle and miniature Moly. Splendid for naturalizing if planted in well drained soil. Deer and rodent resistant. The latest blooming of the Spring bulbs, Alliums combine well with perennials. For mass plantings, use Globemaster (our top choice). Please note we are not permitted to ship Allium bulbs to Idaho, or to Adams, Benton, Franklin, Grant and Klickitat counties in the State of Washington.

Muscari are extremely popular for landscaping, pots and borders! The striking blue colors cheer up any Spring border, and they combine wonderfully with medium height tulips. For large displays, we recommended the flagship variety Armeniacum. Naturalize well and not particularly attractive to deer or rodents.

Bearded Iris are not bulbs, but rhizomes. Unlike most spring bulbs and tubers, bearded iris do not need a cold period to produce flowers. This makes them ideal for areas with mild winters. As they are extremely drought tolerant they are also good for areas with little to no summer rain.

Hardy in zones 3-10. Need a sunny position to bloom well.

Do best in well drained soil, but will tolerate less drainage in drier areas.

Our Jumbo amaryllis bulbs are the perfect gift for the holiday season! Easy to grow indoors, these magnificent blooms will appear approximately 12 weeks after planting.

Pick and choose your own assortment from our wide range of colors and types.

We supply only the largest bulbs available in Holland, producing 2-3 stems per bulb and at least 4 flowers per stem. Each bulb is individually labeled with a full color, elastic tag.

In zones 9 and 10, amaryllis can be planted outdoors.

Plenty of sun and well drained soil are vital. Bottom heat is critical to kickstart growth.

Late December - Early January: Zone 10

Soil temperatures must be 55 F or below to ensure proper root development before winter sets in. Spring Flowering Bulbs must be planted in the Fall. You can continue planting as long as you can get in the ground, but ideally around the time of your first frost, and not later than the onset of winter.

In warmer climates (zones 7b-10), spring bulbs need to be pre-cooled for 8-10 weeks to ensure proper root development and to avoid stunted blooms. We offer complementary pre-cooling to USA customers at our New York warehouse by request only.

Please note that pre-cooled bulbs must be planted immediately upon receipt and are unlikely to return the following year.

Always store bulbs in a cool, dark, dry, well ventilated place. Bulbs can tolerate temperatures between 35 and 75 degrees F.

3. Planting depth and distance

The general rule of thumb is to plant bulbs at a depth of double the height of the bulb. Although not necessary as most bulbs will adjust on their own, it is good practice to plant bulbs in an upright position. Small bulbs can be scattered.

The spacing of the bulbs depends on the visual effect you are looking for. When planting mixtures with sequential bloom times, make sure to plant them closer together than you would a single variety.

2. Soil conditions

Good drainage and plenty of sunlight are critical. Never plant bulbs where water pools, all bulbs are harmed by "wet feet". If you have heavy clay soil, loosen to 10" deep before planting, and add topsoil, compost or peat to lighten the soil. Water thoroughly after planting. For optimal results, apply a slow release nitrogen-phosphorus-potassium fertilizer (10-10-10 or 3-5-3). We like Espoma Organic Bulb Tone. Ideal timing: Early Spring when the first shoots push thru the soil and/or after flowering. Early bloomers can be planted under trees where they will get enough sunlight prior to leaves regrowing. If the same type of bulb is planted in a bed year after year, Rhizoctonia may develop. We prevent this on our farm with crop rotation.

4. Choosing the right combination of bulbs

For the right choice of spring bulbs it is important to decide first which effect is desired. Bulbs can be grown in many ways, from formal to meadow gardens, scattered in lawns, under trees or strategically planted in beds or perennial borders. In a successful bulb combination, not only the colors but also the flower shapes are balanced. A classic bulb planting consists of at least 6 bulbs (tulips, daffodils, hyacinths) per square foot. When mixing tulips with perennials this can be 3-4 bulbs. Hyacinths are often applied in classic flower beds. All varieties have more or less the same height, which gives a peaceful effect. Tulips and daffodils combine very well because of their shapes and colors. The more natural looking daffodils in soft tones with the "royal" tulips in every possible color.

5. Prolong the flowering period by mixing bulb types

An informal effect will be achieved by combining bulbs with different flowering times. This can be different types of tulips, like our mixed and solid colors on pages 6-15, or our long-lasting daffodil mixes which can be found on pages 52-55. Combining tulips and daffodils with hyacinths and smaller bulbs will make a perfect and long-lasting spring display. As the options are endless and a matter of personal taste, we do not offer any standard mixes with multiple bulb types. If you need any assistance or advice on mixing bulbs, just let us know, we are ready to help! As an example, this blend consists of: Muscari, Hyacinths Pink Pearl, Darwin Hybrid and Triumph Tulips.

6. Perennializing

Many bulbs will perennialize if properly handled. It is vitally important for foliage to be allowed to die back (especially with daffodils). The browning, unsightly foliage you will see is an important part of the process. Do not cut back until the foliage has finished dying back and lies limp on the ground (6-8 weeks). Foliage that is mowed/trimmed/tied does not allow the bulbs ample time to re-absorb nutrients, and in turn they will not have sufficient energy to bloom the following Spring.

7. Bulbs in lawns and grass strips

The earliest flowering bulb types are the best choice for planting under grass, as the bulb foliage has to be allowed to die down before mowing. Some bulbs like Chionodoxa, Scilla or Puschkinia depend upon seeds for propagation. These seeds take about 6-8 weeks after flowering before they are ripe. When the seeds fall from the plants, the mowing can start. Here are some suggestions: chionodoxa luciliae, crocus species and large flowering, fritillaria meleagris, all daffodils, leucojum aestivum and scilla siberica.

8. Mass plantings of bulbs in beds and borders

To enjoy perennial and rose borders earlier in the season, spring flowering bulbs can be added. As a bonus, the perennials will later hide the withering leaves of the bulbs. Large plantings of hyacinths, daffodils and tulips add a beautiful multi-color effect to the border. Tulips make a lovely combination with wallflowers, pansies, and forget-me-nots.

9. Bulbs in flower containers

Flower containers are being used more and more to upgrade the appearance of urban areas and access roads. Bulbs can play an important role in container planting, as the flowering can start as early as February with crocus. Plant bulbs in layers (the bulbs flowering last are planted at the lowest level) or work with removable inner containers. The flowers can be replaced when their blooming period is finished. Especially in the winter period, too much water is dangerous to the bulbs. Therefore we advise to place the containers on blocks, so that the water can freely flow away. Use a layer of clay granules at the bottom and add a layer of compost between the bulb layers. We advise to choose shorter flowering bulb types as they are less susceptible to wind damage.
