Vandenberg Hort

Wholesale Bulbs 🌱 Perennials 🌱 Plants 🌱 Soils 🌱 Supplies

Vandenberg Hort Company is a wholesaler of horticultural products that supplies Greenhouses, Garden Centers, Nurseries and Landscapers. Supplying the industry with Flower Bulbs, Perennials, Fruit Plants, Started Greenhouse Plants and a wide range of Greenhouse and Nursery supplies from our 25,000 square foot warehouse facility. We are based out of Howell Michigan which is conveniently located within easy driving distance of many of the state's largest cities! We have trucks on the road all year round to make deliveries to you if minimums are met.

Family business

Vandenberg Horticulture has been a family owned and operated business for several generations! Henry Vandenberg began traveling to the U.S shortly after the war in 1946. In 1953 he married Joanne and moved to the U.S permanently to start his family and Vandenberg Bulb Company in Howell, Michigan. They had a family of 4, 2 sons and 2 daughters. Their sons' Jack and John worked with the company throughout high school and joined the business full time in 1974 and 1975. The company changed its name in 2023 to Vandenberg Horticulture Inc. to better relate to the business model of supplying more than just "bulbs". The company continues to be run by Tim Vandenberg and many long-term employees. Vandenberg Hort is truly a "family" owned and operated business.

Growing company

Vandenberg Hort Company has grown and will continue to grow through sound business morals and ethics. We are dedicated to being a leading horticultural entity supplying the Great Lakes region and beyond. Vandenberg Hort Company will continue to strive to be your preferred supplier and nurture the needs of your growing company.

Bulb Treatment

Our bulbs and perennials are not treated with neonicotinoides. Pesticide use is heavily regulated in the Netherlands and extensive research has been done on this topic. A copy of the results from this study from the Royal Dutch Trade Association for Flowerbulbs and Nursery stock can be found on our website.

Terms and conditions

A full copy of our terms and conditions of sale and freight schedule can be found on our website or the enclosed order form.

To order bulbs

You may submit orders by phone, e-mail, your regional sales representative or online at www.adrbulbs.com. Please note that we are wholesale only and do not sell to the public.

Order deadline and availability

All orders received by us before December 1st will be shipped directly from Holland, with delivery beginning in early March. After this date, all orders are subject to availability. We carry approximately 75% of our program in stock at our Chester, New York warehouse each spring.

If you have any questions or need a quotation for bulb varieties that are not listed, please contact us! It will be our pleasure to help you.

Customers in Canada

Due to difficulties in shipping from the USA to Canada, we are not able to supply you from our NY warehouse. Please contact us at info@ruigrokflowerbulbs.com for availability and shipping options to Canada.

Spring shipping in the USA

Bulb and perennial orders placed pre-deadline begin shipping in early March. Orders placed after the deadline begin shipping in mid March.

Guarantee

We 100% guarantee our bulbs to be viable, healthy and free from injurious insects and disease upon receipt. We guarantee that all of our bulbs are grown from cultivated stock (never harvested from the wild). All of our bulbs are inspected by United States, Canadian and Dutch Departments of Agriculture. We give no warranty to viability of our product after 10 days after receipt. We cannot guarantee survival of product after this time due to factors that are beyond our control, such as improper storage or planting, extreme weather or poor soil.

Ball and Pompon dahlias are prized for their perfectly round blooms, composed of countless tightly rolled petals. Pompon dahlias feature charming, delicate flowers that reach up to 2 inches in diameter. Ball dahlias share the same rounded form but have slightly more open petals, with blooms ranging up to 6 inches in diameter.

Both classes are easy to grow, boasting strong stems that resist tipping. They bloom abundantly and are among the most popular dahlias for cut flowers, while also being well-suited for borders.

Winter hardy in USDA zones 8-11.

All dahlias must be lifted before the first frost, to be stored indoors and replanted in the next spring.

All dahlias are resistant to deer and rodents.

Anemone & Collarette dahlias may not resemble traditional dahlias at first glance.

Collarette dahlias feature a disc of flat or cupped petals, similar to a daisy. Their open center is framed by a collar of shorter petals, often in a contrasting color.

Anemone dahlias, also known as Powder Puff dahlias, are distinguished by their pincushion-shaped center, surrounded by a ring of reflexed petals.

Both varieties are growing in popularity as border and container plants—and it's easy to see why! This class of dahlias is especially beloved by bees and butterflies, making them a delightful addition to any garden.

Winter hardy in USDA zones 8-11.

All dahlias must be lifted before the first frost, to be stored indoors and replanted in the next spring.

All dahlias are resistant to deer and rodents.

Decorative dahlias are ideal for borders, landscapes, and are a top choice for cut flowers.

This class features tall-growing, double-blooming dahlias with medium-sized flowers in a wide range of shapes and colors. Decorative dahlias bloom abundantly from mid-summer until the first frost, continuously producing new flowers throughout the season.

Winter hardy in USDA zones 8-11.

All dahlias must be lifted before the first frost, to be stored indoors and replanted in the next spring.

All dahlias are resistant to deer and rodents.

Dinnerplate dahlias are our most popular class of dahlias—their massive blooms truly set them apart.

These are a type of Decorative dahlia, featuring enormous flower heads that can grow up to 12 inches in diameter. Dinnerplate dahlias make stunning border plants and are equally well-suited for cut flowers.

To help the blooms reach their full potential, regular pinching, deadheading, and staking are essential. Supporting the plants helps protect their heavy flowers from wind and rain, ensuring a spectacular display throughout the season.

Winter hardy in USDA zones 8-11.

All dahlias must be lifted before the first frost, to be stored indoors and replanted in the next spring.

All dahlias are resistant to deer and rodents.

Cactus dahlias are characterized by narrow, tubular petals that remain rolled along their entire length, creating a strikingly spiky appearance.

These dahlias are an excellent choice for borders, well-suited for landscaping, and perform beautifully as cut flowers.

We've also included Fimbriata dahlias in this category—these varieties produce abundant, rounded blooms with soft, fuzzy petals, adding a unique texture to the garden.

Plant in a sunny location and be sure to deadhead faded flowers regularly to encourage continuous blooming.

Winter hardy in USDA zones 8-11.

All dahlias must be lifted before the first frost, to be stored indoors and replanted in the next spring.

All dahlias are resistant to deer and rodents.

Cannas are tropical flowering plants that thrive in summer heat. Their rhizomes produce large, colorful blooms, sturdy stems, and lush foliage. Cannas can continue blooming well into fall in many parts of the United States and Canada. Plant canna bulbs in spring once soil temperatures reach 60°F. In USDA zones 8 and warmer, they do not need to be lifted for winter. Plant rhizomes horizontally with the eyes facing up and cover them with 4 inches of soil. Cannas are naturally resistant to deer and rodents, making them a reliable garden choice.

Calla Lilies (Zantedeschia) are versatile plants that produce multiple trumpet-like flowers. They thrive in pots and containers, make excellent cut flowers, and are well-suited for both landscape plantings and border arrangements. Winter hardy in USDA zones 8–10, they can be started indoors a month before transplanting into the garden. In colder zones, they should be lifted in the fall for replanting in the spring. Naturally resistant to deer and rodents.

Our retail selection of lilies is perfect for borders, landscaping, and containers.

Hardy in USDA zones 3–10, lilies will return year after year, adding lasting beauty to the garden.

Our assortment features three of the most popular types among gardeners:

- Martagon hybrids (Turkish Cap lilies) grow 3–4 feet tall, producing up to 20 blooms per stem.
- OT hybrid lilies combine the fragrance and shape of an Oriental lily with the strength and robustness of a Trumpet lily.
- Tiger lilies are exceptionally hardy, featuring large, freckled blooms with gracefully recurved petals.

IRIS

Bare Root
Perennials

Root Size

Flowering Time

late Spring, Summer

Bulk

25 roots per box

The irises in this selection are late spring and summer-blooming perennials grown from rhizomes. They thrive as landscape plants in water gardens and near ponds or streams. Over time, an iris plant's flowering intensity may decrease—typically after three to five years. Dividing the roots helps stimulate new growth, encouraging fresh blooms.

Most iris varieties are hardy, though Siberian irises are more sensitive to cold and require winter protection to ensure their survival.

Astilbe thrive in fertile, well-drained soil with light shade. They require consistent moisture to prevent their delicate, fern-like foliage from turning brown. Dividing astilbe every few years helps maintain vigorous growth and encourages abundant flowering. Their feathery blooms make beautiful companions in garden borders and are popular as cut flowers for bouquets. Hardy to USDA zone 4.

PEONIES

Bare Root
Perennials

Root Size

3-5 eye,
Itoh varieties 2-3 eye

Flowering Time

Late Spring to Early Summer

Bulk

15 roots per box

Renowned for their delightful fragrance and luxurious, full blooms, peonies are among the finest cut flowers of late spring.

These perennials thrive in zones 3-8, favoring rich, fertile, well-drained soil in full sun. Plant with the eyes facing up, no deeper than 2 inches below the soil surface—if planted too deep, they will produce foliage but fewer blooms. Peonies take time to establish a strong root system. For best results, wait three years before harvesting flowers. Removing buds during the first two years encourages healthier growth and more abundant blooms in subsequent seasons.
